Why is going to the dentist so important?

We've all heard this before: Regular trips to the dentist are essential to maintaining a healthy smile. The dentist has the tools to clean teeth in ways you just can't at home. He can also inspect teeth for any existing damage and intervene to fix problems that may arise. Most importantly, pediatric dental check-ups offer a great opportunity for instruction and practice so you and your child have the tools to practice proper dental care at home.

By the time they reach the second grade, 50% of kids will have had their first cavity.

Cavities are responsible for discomfort and pain but can also lead to more serious infection. An important tool in the fight against tooth decay is fluoride, which greatly reduces the rate of demineralization in tooth enamel. When your child picks a flavor at the dentist and sits still with a tray in their mouth, the fluoride foam is binding to protect those pearly whites.

We have flu shots available!

from the flu this year. Make your

Plaque consists of mostly bacteria. Plaque is easily accessible where you scrub with a toothbrush, but toothbrushes can't reach everywhere. This is why flossing is key: it cleans those hard-to-reach spots.
